

A CAJUN KILLING

MISSISSIPPI RIVER MAGNOLIA QUEEN, 1905

You are invited to sit at the Captain's table for a feast of Cajun delicacies and a discussion on a matter of grave concern.

It is August, 1905 and you are drifting along the mighty Mississippi on board a luxury paddlewheeler. The exquisite staterooms, all-night casinos and lively burlesque shows make the steamboat an exciting place to be. The fun ends abruptly when passenger Benton Thorne IV, a wealthy Louisiana plantation owner, is murdered. . He is fatally stabbed at midnight on the third day steaming out of New Orleans, after struggling in his upper-deck stateroom with an unknown assailant.

Mr. Thorne was traveling on vacation with his gorgeous young wife, Rose, when the tragedy occurred. Over the past two decades, Benton Thorne IV has allowed nothing to stand in his way as he created his multi-million dollar empire. Thorne's ruthless mission to rebuild his family's estate back to its original grandeur has left a trail of bitter enemies and broken hearts. Now that he is dead, you are called to the Captain's Table and you are a suspect.
